The work is one of 4 aquatint etchings (Sqat, Juke, Carn, Alta), one of each is bound into the Parkett edition.

With Parkett magazine.

"Turrell treats light as substance. Instead of stone, wood, clay or bronze, he 'molds' light - artificial or natural - whose density displays a barely visible but fluctuating, palpable presence: palpable through perception. The visitor who exposes himself to this perception is inevitably and bluntly confronted with himself."

Jean-Christophe Ammann, Parkett no. 25, 1990.
